Guided Pathways Development Series

As Guided Pathways is expanded and transformative processes are designed and implemented, the need to further catalyze the classified professionals community is vital. The series outlined below is designed to facilitate deep discussion with the classified professional’s at the Classified Leadership Institute in a 3-part series. Utilizing the professional’s many years of experience, education, and wealth of institutional knowledge to expand and restructure student supports is key in moving forward with the Guided Pathways model. The series of workshops will provide opportunities for partnership and moving towards the Vision for Success in support of students completing their goals to graduation.

Session	Presentation	Summary
Part 1	Introductory Presentation: Classified Professionals -- My Role in the Big Picture	We will explore how classified professionals make an impact on Guided Pathways and student services work at the college and how critical their roles and leadership will be to ensure the success of those efforts. They will explore and reflect how their positions and individual actions will lead to the success of students and building a stronger college community.
Part 2	Guided Pathways through an Equity Lens	Guided Pathways depends on a critical review of college processes in order to better serve the needs of our students. With such changes, your expertise as Classified Professionals plays a critical role to ensure success in this process. This session will utilize an equity-lens tool that infuses equity and assesses how operations and processes have a ripple effect. The goal is to streamline, prioritize, and focus our work on the tasks that best supports student achievement.
Part 3	Coming Together to Support the Work and Students	Learn about how other colleges and regions are leveraging their classified networks to deepen Guided Pathways efforts and improve the academic, personal, and professional outcomes of students at the systems level. Then, discuss how you and your classified peers can activate your collective power to create, engage in and own your space in the Guided Pathways movement!

The 3-part Guided Pathways Development Series will be facilitated by Guided Pathways Regional Coordinators from regions throughout California.
